PMP Exam Sample Questions:

1. You are managing an amusement park development project. You received the following estimates for site excavation and area development activity, which are critical to the success of your project. The most likely estimate is $100,000, the optimistic estimate is $90,000, and the pessimistic estimate is $120,000. What is the variance of the data?

- A. $25,000,000
- B. $5,000
- C. $30,000
- D. $10,5000

Hint: Calculate the standard deviation using the PERT method and then calculate the variance from it.

Correct Answer: A

Explanation: The standard deviation can be calculated as $(\text{Pessimistic} - \text{Optimistic}) / 6$. Variance can be calculated by squaring the standard deviation. For the given data, the variance is \$25,000,000 and the standard deviation is \$5,000. Note: Whenever any question asks about weighted average, standard deviation or the variance from given three estimates, always use PERT formulas to calculate the required outcome. This needs to be done even if the question doesn't explicitly tell you to use PERT formulas.

2. On your project, you handle known risks by performing the Plan Risk Responses process. Which of the following would you use when you encounter unknown risks?

- A. Risk Reserves
- B. Risk Mitigation
- C. Risk Transfer
- D. Risk Acceptance

Hint: Unknown risks cannot be managed proactively.

Correct Answer: A

Explanation: Unknown risks are handled by applying risk reserves.

3. You are managing a construction project for a client and have subcontracted out some of the project work. You negotiated different contracts with the subcontractors, which include various activities and resources, such as site excavation, raw material supplies, and labor workforce. Each of these contract life cycles can end during which phase of your project life cycle?

- A. The Closing phase of the project life cycle

During the identification process of interested parties, the project manager identifies all people or organizations affected by the project, and documents relevant information about their interests, participation and impact on the project of the project.
